WASHINGTON.

The Pleuro-Pneumonia Measure Discussed by the House.

SENATOR MILLER REPORTS THE CHINESE BILL

Henley of California, Opposed to Morrison's Tariff Bill—The President's Reception—Congressional Chit Chat.

A Good Suggestion

WASHINGTON, Feb 6—It has been suggested by an officer in the marine hospital service that a thorough inspection of all cities on the Gulf of Mexico not only in the West Indies but in South and Central America and Mexico should be made before the summer sets in so as to ascertain their sanitary condition, with a view to protection of cities in the United States. The matter will be presented to the secretary of the treasury for action

Flatheads "Doing the Grand"

WASHINGTON Feb 6—At the presidential reception to-night the delegation of Flathead Indians were conducted to the parlor and after shaking hands with the great father formed in line opposite the president and his lady friends where they stood for half an hour looking with evident curiosity at the party but saying not a word

Cabinet Meeting

WASHINGTON Feb 6—Questions involving changes in the present classification of the civil service were under consideration at the cabinet meeting to-day. All members were present and each entered into the discussion The result will probably be embodied in the president's message transmitting the report of the civil service commission

Senate.

WASHINGTON Feb 6

Senator Miller of California from the committee on foreign relations reported the senate bill prepared as an amendment to the anti-Chinese act placed on the calendar Its provisions have been published

The following bills were reported favorably and with amendments were placed on the calendar;

By Miller of California from the committee on foreign relations a bill to provide for executing treaty stipulations relative to the Chinese bill.

Bills introduced and referred

By Logan—To increase the efficiency of the army

The chair (Sherman) laid before the senate unfinished business of yesterday being the Mexican land grant titles bill. This was debated at length and several amendments proposed and rejected An amendment offered by Coke was agreed to excepting from the limitation clause of the act with regard to three years within which claims have to be presented, all minors married women and persons non compos mentis

Without action after an executive session the senate adjourned

House

WASHINGTON Feb 6

The following bills were introduced and referred

By Thomas—Authorizing the purchase of snug harbors for disabled seamen

By Curtin—For the establishment of a branch home for disabled volunteers in one of the western states.

Belmont from the committee on foreign affairs reported the resolution requesting the president to transmit to the house copies of all correspondence between this government and Great Britain respecting fugitives from justice since December [illegible] when suspended extradition under the treaty of 1842 had been resumed Adopted

Clements from the same committee reported a resolution calling upon the secretary of state for information as to whether foreign ministers, consuls or agents of the United States have been absent from duty since the 1st of January 1882 the length of absence and whether salary was paid during the time adopted

The house went into committee of the whole Cobb in the chair on the pleuro-pneumonia bill

Lapham strongly opposed the bill as endangering one of the vast interests of the country an industry in which Texas especially was interested His opposition was not inspired by apprehension that there exists within his state to-day a single case of pleuro-pneumonia Why had not the committee seen fit to restrict the measure's operation to states where the plague exists There were in this measure evils and dangers infinitely worse than the cattle plague He criticised severely the provisions of the bill and especially the section that provides for a [illegible] of the cause of eradicating the disease between the United States and the state in which it exists He predicted that the $25,000 proposed to be appropriated would not be pocket change compared with the vast sums the measure would [illegible]. No more magnificent plan had ever been conceived to unlock the vaults of the treasury and disgorge public funds

Reagan took similar ground in opposition to the measure and argued that many of its provisions were unconstitutional He contended that it gave the federal government powers expressly reserved to states

Eaton considered the pending bill the most mischievous ever presented to congress this present session It should be entitled a bill to abrogate and annul the constitution and deprive states of rights which belong to them It would make the president master of the people of this great confederation of states. It was another of those wedges driven into the constitution

Anderson spoke in support of the measure A terrible disease was threatening one of the greatest industries of the country Congress had power on the ground of protecting the general public at [illegible] property to stamp it out and yet a proposition to do so was met with the old old argument of state sovereignty and state rights No such objection was made when the Mississippi levee bill came up

Muldoon favored the general purport of the bill but opposed certain provisions He gave notice that he would at the proper time, move to recommit the bill for amendment and revision

Peters and Lawrence supported the bill and dwelt upon the immediate necessity for steps to be taken

Cameron expressed hearty concurrence in the purpose of the measure and failed to find any constitutional stumbling block in the way of voting for it A liberal construction of the constitution should always be given where great public good was to be accomplished or a great public evil averted

Rowell contended that the proposed legislation was absolutely necessary to protect the cattle interest and that it was not possible for states to do so without federal aid

Perkins contended that congress had a perfect right and power to legislate upon the subject

Belford said he would not vote for the bill unless [it] was reconstructed, but he was not going to vote against it under the flimsy pretext of state rights He objected to the bill because it authorized some scientific crank to take charge of the whole subject and investigate the condition of cattle shipped from one state to another That was too great a power to put in the hands of any one agent of the nation

Hepburn made a constitutional argument in support of the view that the federal government could in the exercise of its power to regulate commercial interests legislate in the manner proposed by the bill

Cox of New York spoke against the bill which he described as entrenched on the rights of the state

Gibson criticised the bill It was a fraud on its face. It proposed to create an officer who should take the place of collectors of internal revenue and search every man's farm and he was utterly astonished that the committee had put unlimited power in the hands of a subordinate officer and opened to such a wide extent the treasury

Pending further action the committee rose and the house adjourned.

CONGRESSIONAL CHIT CHAT

MORRILL'S SUBSTITUTE FOR MCPHERSON'S BILL

WASHINGTON Feb 6—Senator Morrill introduced in the senate to-day a bill in amendment of Senator McPherson's bill to provide for the issuance of notes to national banking associations which is really a substitute for the bill It provides for the issuance by the comptroller of the currency upon deposits of United States bonds circulating notes as follows: On 3 per cent bonds deposited prior to January 1 1890 circulating notes to an amount equal to 100 per cent of the par value of such bonds provided the issue of circulating notes upon the case of bonds deposited or held in the first year succeeding January 1 1890 shall not exceed 109 per cent of the par value of such bonds and that the issue on such bonds deposited or held in each succeeding year thereafter shall be 1 per cent less than the preceding until the limit of the issue is reduced to the par value of the bonds It provides further that on deposit of any United States bonds now authorized by law circulating notes be issued to the depositor to an amount not to exceed the par value of such bonds but that at no time shall the total amount of such notes issued to any association exceed the amount of its capital stock already paid in at that time

THE TRADE DOLLAR

WASHINGTON Feb 6—The withdrawal of the trade dollar was discussed by the house committee on coinage, weights and measures to day, and the sub-committee having charge of the subject reported a bill Final action by the full committee was postponed until to-morrow The proposed measure provides that until January 1 1886 the trade dollar be received at face value for payment of all dues to the United States, and shall not be in any manner reissued Holders may receive in exchange dollar for dollar any silver coin of the United States on presentation of trade dollars at the office of the treasury, assistant treasurers or any mints of the United States The bill also provides that the trade dollar be recoined into any authorized coin of the government A number of members of the committee [illegible] posed the manner of [illegible] and Representa[tives] [illegible] insist upon an [illegible] age of trade dol[lars] [illegible] any authorized [illegible]

[illegible]

WASHINGTON F[eb] [illegible] sends appro[priation] [illegible] territories [illegible] bill amending [illegible] as to allo[w] [illegible] and secretar[y] [illegible] to subject people [illegible] territories [illegible] created in Washi[ngton] [illegible] who do [illegible] not [illegible] a wanted [illegible] appeal the commi[ttee] [illegible] on the bill

OPPOSITION

WASHINGTON Fe[b] [illegible] pleuro pneumonia [illegible] rably by the com[mittee] [illegible] any opposition [illegible] legislation with [illegible] argument used [illegible] places too much p[ower] [illegible] which can be [illegible] In [illegible] been informed that [illegible] combined genius of the [illegible]

that it was to destroy men who owned thoroughbreds If that were the object the house should have courage enough deliberately to investigate the question before passing the measure

THE NAVAL APPROPRIATIONS BILL

WASHINGTON Feb 6—The house committee on appropriations will complete the naval appropriations bill to-morrow It provides for the appropriation of $14,329,198 being $8,376,404 less than the estimates and $1,563,238 less than the appropriation for the current year A sufficient amount was agreed upon to complete the four steel cruisers proposed by the secretary of the navy Nothing is given however for completion of the monitors for which $3,500,000 is asked

COKE'S BILL REPORTED FAVORABLY

WASHINGTON Feb 6—Senator Coke's bill was reported favorably to-day, to provide for the allotment of lands in severalty to Indians on various reservations, and extend the laws of states and territories to reservations of the Cherokees Creeks Choctaws Chickasaws and Seminoles in Indian territory

FAVORABLE REPORT ORDERED

WASHINGTON Feb 6—The senate committee on agriculture has unanimously ordered a favorable report on the bill to prevent a spread of pleuro pneumonia prepared by representatives of the cattle interests and introduced by Senator Miller.

MORRISON'S TARIFF BILL.

Henley Thinks the Coast Delegation will Oppose it to a Man

WASHINGTON Feb 6—[Special]—The California delegation in the house will probably all oppose Morrison's new tariff bill on the ground that it reduces the duty on California products which in their opinion cannot stand it Mr Henley in conversation this evening said Morrison's bill has no earthly show of passing the house More than half the democrats who voted in caucus for Carlisle will openly oppose any such plan for reforming the tariff I believe any bill proposing horizontal reduction presents so many questionable features that this congress will hardly consent to consider it In California we cannot permit any reduction on raisins oranges borax wool wine or lumber without material injury being done to those interests For myself I am with Converse in desiring to restore the tariff of 1867 on wool instead of reducing it

OUR LUMBER TRADE MENACED

Morrison's bill proposes to put lumber for wharfing and in unhewn state on the free list This practically abolishes the duty on lumber on the Pacific coast for British Columbia lumbermen with the Chinese whom they employ almost exclusively can send unhewn logs into Washington territory by the millions and drive the white men there and in Oregon out of business The lumbermen of Puget Sound, in such competition would either have to cut down the wages of white employes to the Chinese standard or leave the business Chinamen can be imported into British Columbia and wages can be kept down where, as no man on this side of the line could create such competition in wages as China men can no longer be imported into the United States I don't know how General Rosecrans stands on this question but Tully Budd and myself have compared notes and we are against Morrison's bill solid I presume Glascock and Sumner are the same way of thinking

ITS EFFECT UPON CALIFORNIA

Henley was asked his opinion of a 20 per cent reduction on wool and its effect in California He said You know the wool growers of our state have a hard time as things go now Every few years they lose thousands of sheep by famine and disease consequent upon dry seasons To reduce the duty at present I believe would injure their interests materially Being a tariff state we need protection on wool as well as other things for which we are now making reputation and markets I would agree to a tariff bill wherein all these things were considered and in which the duty was reduced on articles that could stand it but the horizontal reduction proposed by Morrison will not do. I have been talking with many members about this bill and find that nearly everybody is opposed to it For instance there is Ellis of Louisiana who represents the sugar interest of his state. If he should vote to reduce everything else he would have no check to ask protection for sugar Hence he will oppose this bill He told me to-day that if Morrison's bill became a law so far as it relates to sugar half the plantations of Louisiana would be ruined before they could adapt themselves to compete with foreign sugar I don't wonder that Morrison's bill has the slightest chance of passage

THE PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION

The White House Thronged—What the Ladies Wore—Etc

WASHINGTON Feb 6—[Special]—The president's first levee [illegible] at the White House this evening, and [illegible] 4000 people to that building [illegible] been [illegible] so many [illegible] the people [illegible] were [illegible] at ten before 8 o'clock The Marine band was stationed in the entrance hall [illegible] guests [illegible] where the gentlemen left their wraps [illegible] the state dining room where the ladies deposited their wraps [illegible] the president [illegible] Marshal McMichael made the presentation speech to the president

THE LADIES' TOILETS

Mrs M'Elroy [illegible] at the president's right was attired in a train dress of black silk covered with black tulle The square neck and elbow sleeves were finished with lace and she wore pearl and diamond ornaments Mrs Frelinghuysen wore a black brocaded satin trimmed with lace, jet and her head dress was composed of small white ostrich tips Mrs Chandler was attired in a superb toilet of black gauze brocaded with black velvet and made up over a crimson satin petticoat The front of the crimson satin was covered with a network of black chenille and satin balls Mrs Gresham wore a trained dress of white brocaded satin heavily embroidered with crystal beads Mrs Brewster's toilet was a rich cardinal satin brocaded with large fleur de lis in pearl and cream tints Mrs Teller wore a dark violet velvet, with trimmings of exquisitely fine point lace and diamond ornaments Mrs Rockwell's dress was black satin heavily trimmed with jetted lace

NOTES

Members of the cabinet including Secretary Lincoln Secretary Chandler Attorney General Brewster and Secretary Teller stood in the blue room just back of the line in the receiving party

Delegate Maginnis of Montana brought with him six Flathead Indian chiefs, who wore their native costume of striped blankets beads claws and shells These noble men of the plains stood for some time in file against the wall of the blue room watching the progress of the great father's reception and were an interesting feature of the evening to many of the visitors.

The attendance although unusually large was in appearance and manners the finest representative gathering of the people ever seen at the White house

THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER CONVENTION

Senator Logan Enters the Hall and Makes an Address

WASHINGTON Feb 6—The Mississippi river convention among the resolutions adopted was one urging an appropriation for improvement of the navigation of the great lakes urging also a liberal appropriation to enable the chief signal officer to improve his signal service river observations While the resolutions were being ordered Senator Logan and his colleague of the senate committee that recently examined the Mississippi river improvements entered the hall The delegates rose and greeted them with loud applause

When the senators had taken seats on the platform there were loud calls for Logan and Senator Logan was introduced and made a brief speech He said the reports of the committee showed how they stood

Senators Sawyer Jones and Walker were also called upon and spoke Senator Jones described rapidly the thorough examination made by the committee and said he trusted the report would have its effect Senator Walker declared that the great states in the Mississippi valley were the controlling power in the government

General Turner of Tennessee offered a jocular motion that congress be requested to make an appropriation to pay the expenses of this convention

Lowery of Missouri took the floor and made a lengthy speech on cheap transportation He said this convention did not come to Washington to petition congress but to instruct the young democracy and young republicans of the Mississippi valley The speaker declared "We will not follow any party that will not advocate the policy of cheap transportation The party," he said "that offers the most substantial proofs of its adherence to these principles would surely win in the next political campaign

THE LAND GRANT QUESTION

Attorneys for the Railroads Complain of Having been Snubbed—A Compromise Proposed

WASHINGTON Jan 6—[Special]—All attorneys who appeared before the house committee on public lands in opposition to bills forfeiting the Texas Pacific and other land grants of western railroads complain of ill treatment at the hands of the committee They say they were only granted from fifteen minutes to one hour in which to argue their cases and even after this summary proceeding the committee did not consider legal points involved at all but decided to report upon certain facts believed to exist The excuse given by Cobb and others for this shutting off argument in these cases is that they were only designed to kill time the attorneys in that way hoping to defeat the bills

Attorneys who have lately appeared before the senate committee on public lands in order to get a hearing are trying to induce that committee to re[fer] [illegible] question [illegible] in the Texas Pacific [illegible] to the senate judiciary committee from which [they] say it is desirable to obtain an opinion before final action is taken. One point that will be made before the senate is that a general law forfeiting all roads which have not complied with the [illegible] act shall suffer forfeiture of [illegible] should [be] passed thus leaving to the [illegible] the determination [of] the fact whether or not the law of congress had [been] complied with.

[illegible] has been made to the senate committee [illegible] forfeiture bills by providing that [illegible] declared to be forfeited shall be sold by the [illegible] at $1 25 per acre and that the companies shall have five years to dispose of all of said lands. At the end of five years all lands not so disposed of [illegible] to revert to the government It is [illegible] promise is offered on behalf of railroad corporations affected

THE ANGRY WATERS.

Thousands of Families Rendered Homeless by Floods.

INCALCULABLE DAMAGE DONE TO PROPERTY

The Great Flood of Last Year Already Rivaled and the Waters Rapidly Rising at Last Reports—Details

CINCINNATI Feb 6—The opinion is general among citizens who have been watching the river and its conditions that the rise will exceed that of last year when it reached 66 feet 4 inches.

A GREAT FLOOD INEVITABLE

CINCINNATI Feb 6—Conservative men who yesterday were unwilling to admit that last year's flood would be duplicated cannot be found to-day No longer is there a doubt that the water will reach last year's hight On the contrary with rain still falling and the weather mild the only question now is how much last year's will be exceeded The most alarming feature of the present situation is the rapidity of the rise Last year when the river had reached its hight it was rising less than an inch an hour At noon to-day the gauge shows fifty nine feet This is unprecedented at such a high stage and shows what a prodigious rain all there has been With last year's experience merchants and manufacturers will lose much less than then No time is now wasted in pumping water from cellars Every available man is employed where the water may increase in placing goods on higher floors or in removing them to higher ground Business is completely suspended throughout all the lower part of the city The Grand Central railroad depot is abandoned The warehouse of Bookwalter's distillery undermined and fell into the water causing a large loss Soon after a cattle pen capable of feeding 1000 cattle was swept away The cattle had been removed yesterday The loss is heavy

A RELIEF FUND STARTED

CINCINNATI Feb 6—The chamber of commerce transacted but little business to-day Measures were taken to provide a relief fund for the destitute A committee of fifteen was appointed and the secretary was kept busy for some time receiving subscriptions mostly $100 each the chamber itself appropriating $5000 to the fund Health officials announced that they would place fifteen men on the sanitary force at the disposal of the relief committee

Rain is still falling The wind is from the south and the temperature is not falling At 2 30 P M the river was 59 feet 7½ inches and rising four inches an hour

FIVE INCHES PER HOUR

CINCINNATI Feb 6—At 9 A M the rain continues The river stands 58 feet and is rising five inches per hour All small streams throughout the country are at flood hight As reported from up river points At Portsmouth 48 feet Ironton 41 feet 7 inches Huntington 44 feet Wheeling 42 feet and rising an inches per hour

PITTSBURG FLOODED

PITTSBURG Feb 6—The river at this point passed the danger line last night and at noon to-day reached 31 feet 6 inches the highest stage since 1832 Dispatches from the headwaters of both rivers report the water still rising, while here it is creeping up on the streets at the rate of eight inches an hour Millions of property in this city on the south side and in Allegheny are submerged All the mills and factories on the banks of both rivers have suspended operations and connection between Pittsburg and Allegheny by street cars is entirely cut off Schools in the first and fourth wards are closed, and the water is within one foot of the first floor of Duquesne street depot Merchants on Water street have moved their goods to the second floor a precaution never before necessary to take Railroad traffic on all rivers is greatly retarded

Great suffering and damage are reported in this vicinity In the Youghiogheny [illegible] hamlets [illegible] lying on the low lands are inundated and hundreds of families have been forced to desert their homes and [illegible] before the coming [illegible] it was found necessary to [illegible] dwellings [illegible] trees [illegible] to keep them from drifting [illegible] total destruction

The scene along the route of the great gorge which extended thirty miles up the Youghiogheny river beggars description [illegible] are piled full of ice with trees heaped up in many places fifteen and twenty feet high standing as a [illegible]

LATEST FROM PITTSBURG

PITTSBURG Feb 6—[illegible] The water is still rising with no immediate prospect of abating [illegible] weather [illegible] streets bounded by Duquesne Way [illegible] the north [illegible] Water street on the south and from the junction of the two rivers to Sixth street [illegible] Liberty, First [illegible] Ferry and Short streets are almost entirely submerged and every street south of Pennsylvania avenue to Sharpsburg a distance of five miles is under water from one to ten feet Library hall on Pennsylvania avenue where Lawrence Barrett was playing is flooded and Barrett was compelled to suspend his performance until the water recedes The [illegible] on Sixth street is still open although surrounded by water and the manager offers free transportation to and from the music in boats

To-night the city is in semi darkness The water is up to the gas works and while the gas is still burning it is very dim On the South Side every street south of Carson from Chartiers creek to Thirtieth is inundated, while all property within three squares of the river in Allegheny is submerged At this time it is impossible to estimate the loss but it is safe to say it will not fall short of a million, and may greatly exceed that amount

Fully 3000 families are rendered homeless by the flood Arrangements have been made to shelter them in public halls to-night and to-morrow morning in accordance with a proclamation of Mayor Lyon public meetings will be held for the purpose of making [illegible] provisions for them until the flood subsides sufficiently to permit them to return to their homes

AT CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND Feb 6—There has been a steady rain for the past [illegible] hours The Mahoning river and tributaries are much swollen [illegible] being taken from [illegible] boats The railways are [illegible] covered with water

ONE MAN DROWNED

LOUISVILLE Feb 6—At [illegible] the river is rising three inches an hour and it is raining steadily People living along the river are moving out to escape the inundation that caught them sleeping in February 1883 The flood scenes of 1883 would doubtless be repeated There has been only one drowning as yet a man named Frank Baldmaker by the overturning of a skiff

AT TOLEDO

TOLEDO Feb 6—Reports from twenty five towns up the Maumee valley within 100 miles indicate a heavy rainfall during the twelve hours ending noon This afternoon it is raining slightly The river here as yet is little above the ordinary stage The ice at Defiance broke up this afternoon and a gorge formed but soon gave way At last reports the river was rising rapidly at that point overflowing its banks in East Defiance At South Toledo the river rose two feet in the twenty four hours ending 2 P M and is still rising There are indications of the ice giving way Property along the river front here is secured as far as possible The Sandusky river at Fremont is rising slowly and may impede travel Cold weather is promised which will doubtless check the flow of water into the Maumee postponing and entirely averting disastrous floods

AT WHEELING

WHEELING W Va Feb 6—The river here stands forty feet and is still rising at the rate of ten inches an hour Many of the low streets on the island in South Wheeling are already submerged many houses being surrounded and a few invaded by the water Three mills have been stopped by water reaching the fires Gas is already shut off from the island The gas works will no doubt be interfered with The fire supply was shut off to night Most of the mills will be stopped by water by evening Bridges and trestles are loaded down with heavy [illegible] Communication with suburbs is seriously interfered with

LAWRENCEBURG Ind Feb 6—People are much frightened and are removing from their houses as rapidly as possible Last year they were imprisoned in the court house Telegraph operators expect to be compelled to vacate their offices to-morrow

Fence Cutting Made a Penalty

AUSTIN Tex Feb 6—The legislature to-day virtually completed the work of the session Fence cutting has been made a felony and the enclosure of small owners in large pastures is prohibited by an act which if constitutional and can be enforced will protect one class of fence cutters in their rights and make them law abiding citizens The other class of cutters those moved by a spirit of lawlessness and communism are turned over to the government which is provided with $50,000 cash to use in their suppression The opinion prevails that the felony penalty will be sufficient to stop fence cutting in thickly settled counties If so the necessity for intervention by the government will be confined to the purely pastoral region in the west and the situation is much simplified

THE OREGON MORTGAGE LAW

Its Provisions Greatly Inconvenience the Oregon and Transcontinental Company

NEW YORK Feb 6—Available assets of the Oregon and Transcontinental Company are likely to be diminished about $2,000,000 by the recent discovery of a clause in the Oregon statute relating to mortgages The Oregon legislature seeking to place restrictions on the mortgaging of private property enacted a law [illegible] all mortgages to be recorded in [illegible] county wherein the mortgaged property or any part of it lay It is the existence of this law that has [illegible] the $1,000,000 general mortgage of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company with Baring Bros and [illegible] causes a defect in the second mortgage deed of the Oregon and California Railway [illegible] The Oregon and Transcontinental company [illegible] railway taking [illegible] the market [illegible] bonds of the latter company in payment There are [illegible] $5,000,000 of these bonds in the treasury of the Oregon and Transcontinental and as they were [illegible] under the defective general mortgage [illegible] they are not negotiable

WILL CAUSE FINANCIAL EMBARRASSMENT

A gentleman prominently interested in Oregon [illegible] yesterday [illegible] the provisions of the Oregon mortgage law would cause a great deal of [illegible] embarrassment [illegible] Of course this law was not [illegible] to apply to railroads [illegible] action on the part of the legislature [illegible] as to exempt railroads from its provisions [illegible] trouble is that the legislature will not meet for about a year from now

In the meantime the Oregon Railway and Navigation company and the Oregon and Transcontinental company will have to [illegible] injury Instead of acquiring an additional [illegible] the indebtedness [illegible] the first named company will have to acquire an additional floating indebtedness for the time being. Fortunately the credit of the Navigation company is pretty good and money can be [illegible] raised on its notes The most pressing need of funds will be felt in the work of completing the Baker City branch of the railroad

Officers of the Oregon and Transcontinental company state that they did not know whether the bonds would have upon the financial policy of that company but that some embarrassment would be caused was freely admitted

SAN FRANCISCO Feb 6—[Special]—At a meeting of the board of trade a [illegible] report of the Central Pacific [illegible] for action, whose effect would be to [illegible] the claim of the Oregon and California [illegible] to its [illegible] land in California long after [illegible] was given and the [illegible] claim and the following

The grant was made eighteen years ago and the road built soon afterwards nearly to its present terminus [illegible] as the country beyond was hard to penetrate as the trade of Oregon did not seem to warrant it and as congress would [illegible] all the granted lands work was discontinued The managers of the Central Pacific [illegible] the grant and [illegible] a comparatively small expenditure the rich valley of the Sacramento they [illegible] the rest [illegible] they waited till Villard got possession of the Northern Pacific and began to make preliminary surveys with view to connecting San Francisco with his Oregon system Then they awoke to the danger of that competition and agreed with him to extend [illegible] from Redding the then terminus to the [illegible] Willamette valley [illegible] It is this [illegible] which they are [illegible] judging from what we [illegible] of the difficulties of the [illegible] completion [illegible] and still further postponed perhaps by the [illegible] troubles of Villard

AN UNKNOWN COUNTRY

Further than this the value of the California and Oregon [illegible] state is an unknown quantity The northern counties of California [illegible] in forests and mineral lands coveted by its owners but [illegible] inhabited, and have little trade [illegible] the road were extended to Portland what [illegible] should we derive from it? THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RESOLUTIONS

OTTAWA Feb 6—The debate on the Canadian Pacific resolutions granting a loan of $22,500,000 to the company to aid the construction of the line was commenced this afternoon by Sir Charles Tupper minister of railways He showed that the guarantee of 3 per cent on $65,000,000 of the Canadian Pacific stock gave no relief to the company owing to the bearing of the stock on the New York and London markets and the hostility of rival corporations, as well as the opposition of party to the company Eight millions were locked up in the hands of the government and over $2,000,000 more was coming due on the guarantee. Without a loan the company could finish the road in 1891, as prescribed by the contract but as it was necessary to [illegible] not to allow traffic to be diverted to the neighboring republic, by the Northern Pacific and other roads to finish the railway the government had come to the assistance of the company Should the company fail to meet its obligation with the government, then the country was amply protected and would be gainers instead of losers thereby Members of the syndicate occupied seats in the gallery during the debate

A GOOD COMPARISON.

The Rev William Roulatt, a well-known Methodist clergyman, residing at Naples, draws the following amusing, but apt comparison between Dr C McLane's Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros, of Pittsburgh, Pa and a ferret.

"A ferret when placed at the entrance of a rat hole, enters the aperture, travels along the passage, seizes upon the rat exterminates his existence and draws the animal's defunct carcass to the light. And in like manner have I found Dr C McLane's Vermifuge to operate upon worms, those dreadful and dangerous tormentors of children. This remedy, like the ferret, enters the aperture of the mouth, travels down the gullet, hunts round the stomach and lays hold of the worms, shakes the life out of the reptiles, sweeps clean their den, and carries their carcasses clear out of the system This, at least, has been the effect of the Vermifuge upon my children."

THURSDAY MORNING, FEB. 7, 1884.

A NEW PAUPER IN THE FIELD.

It has often been argued by this journal that the future prosperity of the Pacific northwest lay in other directions than the growing of wheat for export. Our geographical situation is against us. Every other part of the globe where wheat is grown is more favorably situated for shipping wheat to the markets of Europe than we are. The disadvantage is one that we cannot overcome. But there are new arguments to sustain the conclusion that we must look to other industries rather than that of growing wheat for export. To us there is very great significance in British trade reports recently published. These reports show that while the United States a few years ago shipped 75 per cent. of England's importations of wheat and flour, they supplied only 46 per cent. in 1883, and it is estimated that this will fall during the current year to 38 per cent. In 1881 we sent to England 93,000,000 bushels, in 1882 35,000,000, and in 1883 only 61,000,000. This notwithstanding the fact that while importations of American wheat into Great Britain have been steadily declining the total importations have much increased.

India is now becoming a large source of English supply. From Russia, too, shipments to England have been steadily increasing for years past. The figures show that during the last three years these two countries have more than doubled their export of wheat to England, while the export from the United States has actually fallen off 20 per cent.

To us the most significant thing is the appearance of India as a wheat-producing competitor. The English have been making great efforts to increase the cultivation of wheat in that country, with such success that India, unknown as a wheat-exporter ten years ago, is now ready to supply almost half the requirements of Europe. What is still more significant is the fact that one-half the limit of wheat-production in that country has not yet been reached, and an elaborate system of railways, established over a vast country, is still being extended, supplying transportation from the remote interior to the seaboard, where shipping following the track of world-wide commerce, calls to take the wheat away.

One remarkable feature of this new aspect of the wheat situation is the pressure of this competition and its effect upon the wheat markets of Chicago and New York. A reviewer of those markets points out the fact that the elevators of Chicago, though having a nominal capacity of 20,000,000 bushels, have been taxed to their utmost by accumulation of wheat and lack of orders for shipment, and a wheat blockade is announced more than three months before the opening of lake navigation. In the New York market notices have been given, first, of 600,000 and again of 400,000 bushels of wheat out of condition in the Brooklyn elevators, the result of long holding, for want of export demand. Some of this wheat is said to have been in store since September, 1882.

It would be idle for our people to shut their eyes to the facts indicated by this growing competition of other countries, and especially of India, with their own wheat product. We of the northwest must, in particular, face them. Larger expenditure of money and time is required to get our wheat to market than any other. It is plain that our prosperity lies rather in the development of our own resources through diversification of our industries, than in production of wheat for export. Our states beyond the Rocky mountains can compete with India with better advantage than we can; but even they will find it and are even now finding it, uphill work to meet the new rival in the pauper of India, who can clothe himself with two cotton shirts a year and live on six cents a day. English capital, expended in the construction of railroads and in the extension of the wheat-growing area of that vast country, which contains over two hundred millions of people, is rapidly making this labor available for the supply of the English breadstuffs market. The railroads of India, under government supervision, do their work at rates so far below those of American railway service that no comparison is possible, and the short route to England by the Suez canal, completes the advantage which the English consumer is gaining, through this new competitor, over the wheat-grower of America.

SALARIES OF FEDERAL JUDGES.

While the justices of the United States supreme court have always received fair salaries, and the circuit judges also have been well paid, the salaries of the district judges have been and are now disproportionately low. The determination of the amount of salary to be paid to these officers belongs to congress, subject to the general provision of the constitution that their compensation "shall not be diminished during their continuance in office." The fact that they hold their office during good behavior, and that, at the age of seventy, if they have held their commission for ten years, they may resign and their salary be continued as a retiring pension the remainder of their life, is a partial compensation for the small amount of their annual salary. The chief justice of the supreme court receives $10,500, and each justice $10,000 a year. The circuit judges, nine in number, receive $6000, while the district judges receive salaries ranging from $3500 to $5000. Two receive the maximum amount—Hoffman, of San Francisco, and Hallett, of Denver; Billings, of New Orleans, receives $4500; Blodgett of Chicago, Morris of Baltimore, Nelson of Boston, Nixon of Trenton, Brown of New York, Benedict of Brooklyn, Coxe of Utica, Sage of Cincinnati, and Butler of Philadelphia receive $4000, and the others receive $3500. Before the war the salaries of district judges ranged from $1000 to $3000. Judge Prentiss of Vermont, after having served two terms with distinction in the United States senate, accepted the appointment of district judge in 1842 and served till his death in 1857 on a salary of $1200. At the present time many of the district judges, like Judge Deady of this city, Judge Treat of St. Louis, Judge Dundy of Nebraska, and Judge Withey of Michigan, men of ripe years, profound legal attainments and high personal and professional character, are rendering a life service to the government on a salary of $3500, about the same that is paid to a decent prosecutor in the police courts of the larger cities. It is a credit to the federal judiciary that men have been willing to make some pecuniary sacrifice to fill these positions of responsibility and usefulness, and that the instances have been been so rare in which their integrity has been questioned. At the same time, considering the fact that "human nature is such nasty stuff," it has always been deemed an important safeguard to judicial independence, as well as the necessary means for procuring the services of the ablest lawyers and jurists, that the salaries of judges should be ample, and there can be little room for doubt that the general interests of the public would be more secure if the salaries of these district judges were more nearly proportionate to the salaries of other important offices. We cannot, as we have before said, afford to bid against the corporations for the services of lawyers, neither should congress be influenced by the fact that police justices in New York city receive $10,000 in fixing these salaries. There is, as the New York farmer said, "a blamed large hiatus between the salaries of many officers in that state and their service to the public." The government, nevertheless, owes it to itself that the faithful services of such men as Judge Deady and others we have named should be more liberally rewarded, and the bill introduced by Senator Dolph to raise Judge Deady's salary to $5000 is based on a correct principle.

Harper's Weekly tells Mr. Morrison that horizontal reduction of the tariff is not changing the principle of the present system, and will not make it a tariff for revenue only.

NEWSPAPERS AND CORPORATIONS.

The Northwest News charges that the "only paper" received a subsidy of $1000 a month from the Villard combination during the height of Mr. Villard's power. It further charges that this subsidy has been recently discontinued. It further affirms that the "only paper" is now defaming the Northern Pacific because of the discontinuance of this monthly subsidy.

The above is from an alleged newspaper calling itself the Northwest News. By the "only paper" it means THE OREGONIAN. In every particular the statement is a lie; and as it is a wanton and utterly contemptible lie, it is worthy of the miserable travesty of journalism that produces it. Were the paper that makes the above statement anything but an utterly irresponsible concern, morally, intellectually and financially, it would never venture to make such assertions. As it is, it presumes on its known irresponsibility to secure immunity to itself against the consequences of any statement, however false and calumnious, and revels in lies from the mere lust of lying.

A paper without proprietorship or editorial responsibility; the name of no person connected with it whom anybody knows or cares to know; guided neither by moral judgment nor newspaper sense, but driven on blindly with stupidity at the prow and imbecility at the helm—what wonder that such a paper is the most utter and contemptible failure ever witnessed in the journalism of Oregon? What wonder that the entire press of the northwest, in so far as it has not become oblivious to the pitiful existence of this abortive thing, notices it only with gibes, flouts, and other expressions of contempt? What wonder that it has sunk in public esteem from its very first issue, till few persons now see it at all, and fewer still ever care to see it? The failure it made at the start has been aggravated by the work of every week since the start was made. This is the interpretation of the withdrawal from it of every man of character and responsibility who has had to do with it since its fatuous beginning; of the surrender of their stock with loss of all they had put into it, by the only gentlemen who had part in starting it; of the failure to keep an editor of fair ability or self-respecting character; of the numerous mortgages that have been piled upon it; of the utter impossibility of inducing the public to take and read it; of its steadily dwindling and now insignificant circulation; of its numerous and rapid changes of form, size and make-up; of its starting a seven-day paper, proclaiming it "a great success," and then immediately falling back to the six-day issue with reduction of matter and two reductions of price in one week. And still, with every effort, that "alacrity of sinking" continues to carry it down. A pauper alike in honesty and ability, in intellectual and financial resources, in knowledge of what a newspaper should be and in capacity to make even the poorest conception of journalism effective, its position is well understood by the public; but even such a slanderous and imbecile thing shall not presume on its own worthlessness and imbecility to attack the integrity of THE OREGONIAN without getting such a characterization, for once, as it deserves.

The relations of this journal with Northern Pacific are now precisely what they have ever been, and precisely what they are with all other persons. This journal does not receive, nor ever did receive, one penny from any quarter beyond its regular earnings as a newspaper—that is, its receipts from subscriptions, sales and advertisements, at rates uniformly equal to all. The Northern Pacific has been served by it just as all other customers; and not a penny as a gratuity, or for "influence," has ever come to it, or ever been offered it. That corporation, when it has advertised in THE OREGONIAN, has paid for its advertisements at the same rates charged to all other persons; and this constitutes the entire sum of financial transactions between the corporation and the newspaper. As the management of the Northern Pacific has always been in honorable hands, we do not believe it has ever offered or paid any money for the service or "influence" of newspapers—though doubtless a multitude of venal sheets have been ready to serve it, and perhaps have even offered to serve it, for pay.

The peculiarity of the situation here is of itself a sufficient answer to this charge. The people on whom THE OREGONIAN depends for support have been very anxious to have these railroads built, and in order to gain their support it has been necessary for it to be friendly to the railroads. If any newspaper during this period of railroad construction had opposed them it would have inevitably lost subscribers and reduced itself to the impecunious condition of our accuser. It has been entirely needless for the railroads to subsidize the press. They have been sure of all the newspaper support they required in the very nature of the case, and to say that they have been paying money for what they were certain to receive without pay is to charge them with a stupidity that is equaled only by that which prompted this false accusation.

To a hoodlum newspaper, guided by no perception of true journalism, governed by no principle of honesty, and by consequence, always in sore straits for money, the attitude of a legitimate and self respecting journal towards corporations, is doubtless incomprehensible. If on the one hand, anything be said by such journal in favor or support of an undertaking in which a powerful corporation is engaged, the hoodlum organ at once screams "subsidy;" if, on the other hand, any criticism upon the corporation, or its management be offered, the hoodlum organ shrieks "blackmail." "The only paper gets a subsidy," is the first exclamation; "the subsidy has been cut off," is the next. All this merely shows the venal character of the hoodlum sheet. It is setting forth its own conception of journalism. It is disclosing the way in which it does or would like to do business. The Northern Pacific has had the support of THE OREGONIAN because THE OREGONIAN has believed that the country wanted the road. It has therefore opposed the enemies of the Northern Pacific who have striven to defeat or delay the undertaking. Of the alleged "championship" of the Northern Pacific by THE OREGONIAN this is the sole explanation; but the paper has never yielded its right to criticise points of policy or management in the work of the corporation; it has never closed its columns to reasonable complaints of the public against it, nor will it ever. The legitimate newspaper is friendly to every interest, great and small, but the slave of none. It has courage to support a great corporation in its work for the development of the country, and courage to criticise or oppose it when its policy toward the public or toward individuals seems unjust or oppressive. A paper could not change from a subsidized organ of a corporation to a position of antagonism or enmity towards it, nor even to the position of an independent critic, because it would be paralyzed by fear of the disclosure of its old relations. The subsidized journal, though conducted with ability, is ever weak. Conscience makes cowards of them all; and not only that, but they are distrusted always by the public, who know by an instinct surer than positive knowledge what the status of a newspaper, on such matters, is. No compensation or subsidy, however large, could pay a real newspaper for hired service to a railroad or other corporation. To a beggarly organ like the "long felt want" the sum of $1000 a month would doubtless seem very large—sufficient compensation in fact for any abasement of itself; but to a real newspaper it would be nothing, even in a financial point of view; while no sum whatever could be large enough to bind such newspaper to the service of a corporation any more than a free man of spirit would sell himself to a master. It is the money of the people that supports the successful newspaper. It earns that money by its service to them, and neither deserves nor achieves success, except through independence of special interests and devotion to those of the people at large. This, supported by industry, judgment and common sense, is the secret of successful journalism, in which it would be affectation on the part of THE OREGONIAN to deny that it is moderately versed; and, in like manner, it would be the worst kind of lying to intimate or pretend that the hoodlum daily of Portland will ever, by any possibility, reach a knowledge of the secret; or, still less, acquire the disposition to make the knowledge of it available. Hence it has no possible future, unless it shall pass into the hands of some one who has honesty, ability and newspaper sense; and it has sunk so low that, in all probability, even that miracle could not now create a soul under those ribs of death.

EVENINGS AT HOME.

It is a question of very great interest to the well-being of the community, how the young people, and the old people, too, have been spending these long winter evenings, whether these evenings have been wasted in idleness or worse than wasted in dissipation, or whether they have been devoted to social and intellectual improvement. The tendency is everywhere so strong, both in the city and country, to fritter away these opportunities for cultivation, that unless a systematic effort is made, and steadily adhered to, the winter will pass by without leaving people any further advanced, except in age, than they were at its beginning. It is not too late now to begin to improve the hours that remain. Personal advancement in study must in a great degree always depend on one's self, but social improvement of course depends upon association with others. One great want of both city and town is profitable society, as a stimulus to personal growth in knowledge, and as a means of acquiring the art of refined intercourse, which constitutes one of the greatest charms of life. Without intelligence, society inevitably becomes stale and unprofitable, with a tendency to vulgarity and immorality. The way to keep the heart pure is to fill the head with ideas. If young people in their intercourse with each other do not have the protection of intellectual tastes and activities, intuitive and moral safeguards are very apt to break down; for society which depends wholly, as that of the dancing room for the most part does, upon physical charms for its attraction, develops temptations to vulgarity, if it does not at first present them. How to enjoy one's self sensibly in company, or, in other words, how to have a good time without losing the charm, while the reserve and the mystery that is felt by the unsophisticated and pure of both sexes toward each other, is one of the most useful things to know.

The means for social development at the same time are so simple that they can be made available in every neighborhood. It is best, we believe, that the old and young should unite in whatever organized attempts are made for this purpose. A sort of informal association may be formed in every community, and in large communities there may be more than one, without a constitution, by-laws, dues, or lengthy business debates. A president and secretary are all the officers needed; or let there be simply one person to act as manager. At each meeting some member or members, by previous arrangement, should be prepared to read an article, or present for discussion some topic of literary, scientific or social interest, to be followed by remarks or suggestions from others. After the literary exercise, which may be varied to suit the tastes and capacities of the members, the main thing being to enlist the efforts and engage the activities of every member from the oldest to the youngest, some time should be given to social enjoyment exclusively, and if there is music in the house some of the old fashioned square dances may be profitably indulged to close off with. As a rule no refreshments should be permitted, for they only consume time which may be more profitably employed, and are apt to become a burden upon the entertainer which makes it hard or to secure the meetings at the most convenient dwellings. The beneficial results of such a plan, as is here outlined, will be found on a faithful trial, to be surprisingly great. Both ease of manner, intellectual stimulus and fondness for sensible society will all be acquired. The families who thus unite to spend an evening once a week or once a fortnight, will be knit together in closer social relations, the mental powers of the members will be strengthened, a spirit of research will be developed, the whole community will be enlightened and improved, and life will become more worth living and be more worthily lived.

CITY.

HE WOULD IF HE COULD.—Colonel J. H. Tomlin[illegible] who has gained so great and so unenviable notoriety since he went from this place to California, is evidently a thoughtful man. Just before leaving here he succeeded in obtaining from Joe Holder $100 in coin. He was brought back from [illegible] by Holder and in order to get away gave [illegible] an order for a lot of property consisting of [illegible] blankets, etc., which Holder was to retain as security. After Tomlinson was gone Holder went after the property and found there was none to be had, some other person having also been for [illegible] with an order and having taken the property away. Tomlinson wrote back to Holder from Jack[illegible] asking him to take good care of the [illegible] which he had not received. Joe did not know whether this was meant as a joke or not. Not long since word was received here that Tomlinson had been indicted on several serious charges at Sacramento, and was in confinement there. It seems that he has gained his liberty once more, as Holder yesterday received a letter from him dated at La[illegible], California, once more asking that his property be well taken care of. Holder only just wishes that he had the property and he would take care of it in earnest.

NO CANVASBACKS YET.—The markets still remain [illegible] of canvasback ducks. These birds, sportsmen [illegible], will not decoy this year and no one can [illegible] the reason. Probably the ducks could if they would, but as they will not it may not be out of place to suggest that the reason why they do not decoy is because they are too coy. Messrs. Woodson [illegible] and J. Pacquet visited their lake on Sauvie's [illegible] a few days since and only secured about two dozen of canvasbacks. They would not eke out their [illegible] by shooting trash ducks. From California [illegible] a complaint of no canvasbacks this season, and one reason alleged for their absence is that the [illegible] hens have destroyed their feeding grounds. The same thing was apprehended at Sauvie's island some time ago, but during a freeze up the hunters [illegible] out and trade was on the mud hens, which were confined to the center of the ponds by ice and nearly exterminated them. And after taking all that trouble and after importing wonga seeds from [illegible]ville to vary the wapato diet of the canvas the [illegible] birds will not decoy and the hunters are not [illegible]

MUST GET LICENSES OR CLOSE UP.—The cases of George Wohlers and H. Alexander, who were arrested for selling liquor without a city license, have been postponed for trial in the police court until to-[illegible]. Both men gave bonds for their appearance, and [illegible] they will fight the cases on the ground that they are doing only a wholesale business. However, the [illegible] have direct evidence to the contrary and are [illegible] assured that these men continue to vio[illegible] the law during the past two or three quarters, [illegible] these men bluster considerably, they will [illegible] try to have the cases dismissed by taking [illegible] their licenses. It might not be a bad idea to [illegible] as an example now and then by imposing the fine [illegible] requiring the license to be taken out afterward, [illegible] there is no real penalty attached to a vio[illegible] of the ordinance [illegible] those who break the [illegible] are treated with the same consideration as those who take out licenses at the beginning of each quarter.

[illegible] OF AUTHORITY.—While Ned Dougherty [illegible] was making some purchases in a [illegible] store [illegible] his faithful dog was waiting for him out on the sidewalk [illegible] The latter was [illegible] which [illegible] threw some [illegible] then started up the street [illegible] At this juncture and seeing [illegible] a tramp was [illegible] He therefore [illegible] official [illegible] Each was unknown [illegible] other each but the other [illegible] After a few minutes they quit glar[illegible] and [illegible] and Dougherty walked off [illegible] dog.

[illegible] S. MAGAZINE.—C. F. Thatcher of Iowa [illegible] writes to THE OREGONIAN to say that he [illegible] subscribed for the U. S. Magazine on September 18 [illegible] C. W. [illegible] and has received several [illegible] Mr. Thatcher is evidently one of the [illegible] as a large number of persons in and [illegible] this city subscribed for the magazine through [illegible] Rose, and the postoffice officials say that there [illegible] a number of the work been seen in the post-office here. It is very much to be feared that the [illegible] here have been swindled out of their money [illegible] swindles have been perpetrated on the people [illegible] this section of late. A few experiences of this [illegible] will teach people to be very careful how they [illegible] in advance for unknown publications, especially [illegible] insect advertisements free.

[illegible] TO BUILD.—The old buildings on J. W. [illegible] property at the southeast corner of Oak and [illegible] streets are being removed preparatory to the [illegible] of a three-story brick, the construction of [illegible] will be commenced forthwith. The frame [illegible] on H. W. Corbett's property at the south[illegible] corner of Third and Morrison streets are also [illegible] process of removal to make room for a fine four [illegible] brick block which will be commenced at once. [illegible] is already progressing on J. W. Cook's brick [illegible] at the foot of Ash street. From present ap[illegible] the building business will be lively the [illegible] season.

[illegible] SELLWOODIANS.—Two of the passen[illegible] from Sellwood to this city by the steamer yes[illegible] morning, a carpenter and a tinner named Page [illegible] Sensible, became involved in a quarrel. A lively [illegible] match ensued and Page got Sensible down [illegible] would perhaps have made him insensible had [illegible] not been separated by the captain. As soon as [illegible] landed on the dock here the battle was renewed [illegible] Sensible got Page down and wanted to make him [illegible] sensible. Both parties are now sensible of the [illegible] that they acted in an improper manner and will [illegible] over a new Page in their conduct.

[illegible] $100 EACH.—Frank Doyle and Ed Welch, [illegible] worthless fellows, were arrested some three [illegible] ago upon a charge of having stolen a cloak [illegible] was hanging out in front of a store. An indict[illegible] was found against them by the grand jury for [illegible] but having signified their willingness to [illegible] guilty to petit larceny, they were allowed to [illegible] and yesterday Judge Smith sentenced each to pay a fine of $100. Having no money they will [illegible] out the son [illegible] in jail.

[illegible] ASTORIA TOUGHS INTERFERE?—The Carrie [illegible] has completed a lumber freight for Monte[illegible] and will clear to-morrow from Astoria. Her [illegible] were shipped here from Chapman's [illegible] and it is stated that threats have been made [illegible] the Astoria gang against the men. If an attempt [illegible] made to board the vessel there will be fun in the [illegible] The experiment of boarding a ship and carry[illegible] off the crew by force is not likely to be success[illegible] repeated.

[illegible] SESSION.—The United States grand jury [illegible] returned true bills in the cases of William [illegible] and Daniel T. Hill, charged with mail [illegible] in Coos county, Patrick Keefe of Sitka [illegible] with him for, and Joseph Hamilton, accused [illegible] money by passing a gilded five [illegible] for $5. There being no further business for [illegible] consideration the grand jury were discharged [illegible] their fees and dispersed to their homes.

[illegible] QUESTIONS.—From the great number [illegible] letters of inquiry received by THE OREGONIAN [illegible] all parts of the east asking for information on [illegible] subjects concerning the northwest it is evident [illegible] many people have thoughts of coming west. [illegible] the questions asked would require an [illegible] to answer satisfactorily and others would [illegible] the expenditure of more time and labor than [illegible] office can give to such matters.

[illegible] DINNER.—The annual meeting and dinner [illegible] Portland Cricket Club takes place at Eppin[illegible] this evening at [illegible] o'clock. These meetings are [illegible] enjoyable affairs and members will no doubt [illegible] in full force. Cricketers who intend join[illegible] the club for the coming season will be heartily [illegible] When it is said that the dinner will be [illegible] Eppinger's best efforts anything further re[illegible] it is unnecessary.

[illegible] CHEAP.—The entire stock and fixtures of [illegible] restaurant which were sold by the sheriff [illegible] brought only $61. An immense cooking [illegible] that cost $[illegible] and had been in use less than [illegible] was sold for $40. The money realized by [illegible] sale will be in the custody of the state circuit [illegible] until a decision is reached in the suit of Daw[illegible] Padgett which involves its ownership.

[illegible] PASSENGERS.—Passed Sprague yester[illegible] to arrive here this morning: Lydia McAvoy, P. [illegible] wife and son, Miss Lily Smith, George [illegible] and R. B. Cedar. The following through pas[illegible] arrived here yesterday morning: James [illegible] Hallon and wife, A. Brooks, I. Burr, M. [illegible] C. Remington, S. B. Radcliff, R. D. Hog [illegible] Sylvan and Frank Pierce.

[illegible] SALOON LICENSE.—A liquor license was [illegible] by the county court yesterday to John B. [illegible] to dispense intoxicating beverages in the town [illegible] for six months from date. Bonds were given [illegible] for good conduct of himself and place in the [illegible] of $500.

[illegible] STATES DISTRICT COURT.—Judge Deady [illegible] delivered an opinion in this court this morning [illegible] case of Ullock, libelant, for pilotage by George [illegible]

GAMBLERS GETTING BOLDER.—As was stated in three columns a few days since, the gamblers of this city are growing bolder and seem to have less fear of the law from day to day. Gambling has been carried on openly in a place which is visited by respectable people, and in the slums of Chinatown a degraded "pakahoe" and his equally degraded partner openly carried on a fan tan game which was visited by both Chinese and whites and no effort was made to stop them till the press of the city was obliged to do it. In what may be called the better class of gambling houses here it has always been the custom to close the game on Sunday, but so little dread of the law is now felt that at Gratton's adjoining the Y. M. C. A. rooms, the game has been running for two Sundays past. It is not to be supposed that he stands in any more danger of arrest from running his game on Sunday than on any other day, but it is only fair to give the pigeons a rest from being plucked on one day in the week. Even the dealers like a rest on Sunday, and common prudence should suggest inadvisability of the class which haunts the gambling rooms bringing themselves in contact with people attending services at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

AGIN BOYS.—Some time ago an anonymous letter was received by THE OREGONIAN purporting to emanate from several expressmen calling on this paper to advocate an ordinance prohibiting boys from driving express wagons. It was consigned with all other anonymous communications to the waste basket. Last night this matter came before the council in a petition signed by fifty or more expressmen asking the city to pass such an ordinance, viz., making it unlawful for any one under 20 years of age to engage in that avocation. The great question of the day is "what shall we do with our boys?" If the council should pass such an ordinance as is asked for and it could be enforced, it would define one thing which could not be done with the boys. The animus of the request is wrong and those making it should know that it could not be granted, that it would be unconstitutional and against public policy. Give the boys a chance. Before long they will have to drive all the express wagons till the seats of the honorable councilmen and the mayor himself and some of the elect will even run the newspapers.

MODEST OFFER.—Last night's session of the city council was the dullest of the new year. It ran along for nearly three hours hearing dry street reports and other routine business without excitement or anything else to relieve the tedium until the end of the resolutions was read. Here discovery was made of a communication from H. A. Harmondson, which had been handed in during the course of the evening, in which he offered to furnish twenty three teams and sprinklers and keep the dust down in all the streets from May 1 to Nov. 1 for $66,500. If the city would give him a contract for two years he would throw off 10 per cent. The proposition evoked smiles from the councilmen and the lobby, and as the enormity of the offer dawned on the assemblage he was literally laughed to scorn. Mr. Harmondson has probably not learned that the fifteen mill tax did not get through, and if it had, that the surplus over actual needs was not intended for those outside the ring.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS.—The following officers elect of Summer lodge No. 1, I. O. of G. S. and D. of S. for the ensuing quarter were installed on Tuesday evening last by Rev. T. T. B. Reed: R. W. P. D. G. O. and lodge deputy John Brown, W. G. Emma Sykes, P. D. Alfred Meridith, V. G. Cecilia Reed, D. F. Charles Ritter, R. S. Hattie Sykes, D. R. Charles Sykes, F. S. Etta Ritter, D. F. William Glasco, W. T. Josephine Ritter, L. P. Alfred Henderson, Con.; Rosa Jackson, D. Con. Malichi Johnson, prelate; Annie Perry, D. L.; Caesar Taylor, J. S. Hattie Crawford, D. K. Enoch Newsome, O. S. Reuben Crawford, W. P. C. Sarah Gayle, P. F. D. Rev. T. T. B. Reed and Mrs. Josephine Ritter were elected delegates to attend the State Temperance Alliance which will convene in this city on the 20th inst.

COLDER AGAIN.—The weather, although bright and sunny yesterday, was slightly too cold for comfort owing to a strong northerly wind. The temperature of eastern Oregon fell in sympathy. At The Dalles, Riparia and Dayton the thermometer marked twenty degrees and ranged from that at various points up to twenty eight degrees at Walla Walla. The weather was clear all over the upper country. The cold has decreased the volume of water in the Snake river, which at Riparia was two inches below low water mark. A change of wind will be welcome to all as it will soon remove the coating of snow which now covers even the lowest peaks of the cascades.

NATIONAL SCIENCE ASSOCIATION.—The annual meeting of the National Science Association was held in the new rooms last night. The president, Prof. L. F. Henderson, read his report, in which he offered several valuable suggestions relating to the promotion of the society's work and the wider diffusion of knowledge of the sciences. Financially the [illegible] the treasury a large [illegible] the coming year's expenses. Election of officers resulted in the choice of the following: President, Prof. L. F. Henderson; vice president, H. H. Hilsado; secretary, W. H. Smith; treasurer, [illegible]

LAID TO REST.—At 10 o'clock yesterday morning the remains of Charles Miles were conveyed from [illegible] on Main street to their last resting place in [illegible] [illegible] the cortege to the grave.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE.

Twenty-Four Carat Puff for the Chief of Police.

NO REFERENCE TO THE DESSER CONTRACT.

A Slap at the City Dredge—Recommendation that Street Cleaning be Done by Contract—Other Matters.

At the meeting of the city council last night Mayor J. A. Chapman submitted the following message, which was referred to the proper committee:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, Portland, Dec. 31, 1883.
To the members of the Common Council of the City of Portland:

GENTLEMEN—The city charter makes it the duty of the mayor to present to the council an annual message embracing a general statement of the condition and affairs of the municipality, recommending such measures as he may deem expedient and proper, and in obedience to said requirement I herewith present to you a brief statement together with my recommendations in reference thereto.

As shown by the reports of the auditor and clerk and treasurer it will be seen that the total receipts of the city for the year ending December 31, 1883, were as follows:

Total receipts	$245 864 84
Total expenditures	216 807 10
Receipts over expenditures	$ [illegible]1 057 74

POLICE DEPARTMENT.

The regular police force of the city now numbers thirty two men, besides the chief and three captains, an increase of seven men. This department under the supervision of the present chief, W. H. Watkinds, has since his appointment in July, 1883, attained the gratifying result of being nearly self-sustaining. That is, the receipts in cash have nearly paid all the running expenses of that department, an instance not heretofore attained by any predecessor in this office, notwithstanding the increase in number of officers receiving a salary, and the further difficulty met with in enforcing the collection of fines under certain ordinances recently declared by the higher courts to be inoperative under the present charter, and consequent loss to the city of large sums of money.

Aside from this little discrepancy in the charter and the apparent [illegible] between local news papers in furthering petty political bickerings, the city of Portland has every reason to be proud of the fact of being well protected in life and property, comparing favorably with any other city of like age and size in the world.

And there seems to be no reason for apprehension that this latter desirable result will not continue as long as the present chief is permitted to occupy his place at the head of the police force.

RECEIPTS AND EXPENSES OF POLICE DEPARTMENT.

July, 1883	$ 1 710 50
August 1883	4 0[illegible]
September 1883	1,400 65
October 1883	3,095 35
November 1883	1 531 00
December 1883	1 0[illegible]
Total	$14 361 98

EXPENSES FOR SAME PERIOD.

July	$ 2 042 45
August	2 14[illegible]
September	2 7[illegible]
October (after increase of force)	3 310 00
November	3 380 00
December	3 286 00
Total	$17 778 42

The receipts for the whole year ending December 31, 1883, were $23 [illegible] 85, of which amount $14,361 98 was collected during the last half year (under Chief Watkinds' administration), leaving a balance of $8 653 [illegible] as all the receipts for the first half year during the administration of Chief Lappeus.

In addition to the above, if the amount of fines imposed by the police court on Chinese fan gamblers had not been reversed by a higher court for want of authority under the city charter and ordinances to make the arrests, the receipts would have been greater than the expenses, more than $1600 of which sums were returned to the gamblers.

RIVER IMPROVEMENTS.

It seems almost superfluous for me to comment upon the great necessity of keeping the river open to the commerce of the world from the city of Portland to the sea. It is a matter well understood by the whole people about which there seems to be no controversy, except perhaps as to the means and methods adopted and to be adopted to carry out the work of improving the channel of the river.

A large sum of money has been expended by the city in building a dredger, and large amounts have also been expended in efforts to make its work a success.

From the records of monthly expenditures, [illegible] salary of working [illegible] it would [illegible] that the present dredge is a very expensive piece of property to the city. But as some of the matters connected with the construction and operation of the dredger are now before a committee of the council for investigation, [illegible] further [illegible] at this time [illegible] further suggestion to the council viz.: That as the successful result [illegible] in the working of this dredger seems to be somewhat problematical, would it not be well for the council to investigate other methods that might [illegible] and cheaper.

ASSESSMENT AND [illegible]

The present [illegible] my former [illegible] market improvements [illegible] river [illegible] which had previously been [illegible] entirely neglected.

ASSESSMENT [illegible]

[illegible] my last annual message [illegible] still laboring under great disadvantage [illegible] [illegible] county assessor [illegible] the city levy is [illegible] [illegible] legislation.

Your attention is earnestly called to the above subject with the view that a committee of the council [illegible] that the attention of the next legislature [illegible] [illegible] directed by providing that the assessment be made by the city independent of the county assessor. It is very evident to anyone who will take the trouble to examine and make the comparison that [illegible] saved to the city to pay the expenses of an independent assessment.

PUBLIC LEVEE.

I desire to again call your special attention to the property known as the public levee, the legal title to which I assume to be in the city of Portland, the supervision and control of which has by act of the legislature been vested in the city council.

It may be set down as a conceded fact that this property in the hands of private individuals could with a small outlay be made to bring in a handsome monthly rental, and there is no reason apparent to my mind why the city council cannot devise some mode by which the city may derive a large revenue from this property. At any rate there appears to be no reason why so valuable a piece of property should remain from year to year in a condition worse than a barren waste. It seems very apparent that all legitimate sources of revenue to the city should be utilized at the present time wherever practical in order to lessen the burden of direct taxation upon the people. With these facts and circumstances in view, I would recommend and urge that the council take some immediate action in the matter.

I would recommend that reasonable notice be given by publication for sealed bids for the lease of the property for a term of years be given and that the same be awarded to the highest responsible bidder under such proper guarantee for the payment of such monthly rental for said term, as the council might deem proper to accept, and under such other restrictions and legal obligations as the responsibility of the transaction might require to be imposed.

SEWERS.

In view of the fact that this branch of the city affairs is under the principally [illegible] the superintendent of streets, and as that officer has been engaged [illegible] in preparing an elaborate system of sewerage, I deem it inadvisable for me to say anything more than refer you to his official report.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Since my annual message for the year 1882, the fire department has still been under the control of the same board of commissioners appointed for that purpose.

The council has been notified by said board of the estimated amount of taxes to be levied to meet the expenses of the current year, and it is not for me or the council to say whether the amount is excessive or not, as the board alone has full discretion in that matter. But it is only fair to presume that the well known integrity of all the gentlemen composing the board is a sufficient guarantee that no unjust or exorbitant sum will be required of the tax payers for that department of the city government.

HEALTH.

No epidemic of a serious nature has visited the city within the last year, and with the sagacity and vigilance of the present board of health it is safe to say that all necessary precaution available will be used in the future to maintain the present state of the health of the inhabitants of the city as heretofore enjoyed.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

There has been a large amount of street improvement made in the city during the year 1883, involving a large outlay of money. But little improvement has been made this far in the quality of material used or the manner of putting it down. I would therefore call your attention to the suggestion made under this head in my annual message of 1882 and urge its careful consideration.

CITY JAIL.

Too much praise cannot be given to the committee and chief of police, having charge of the much needed improvements to the city jail and its surroundings, for the efficient manner in which they have discharged their duty. It now presents at once an appearance of health and cleanliness—being more convenient for the officers as well as humane toward the unfortunate beings who of necessity of the law are compelled to be confined within its walls.

STREET CLEANING.

The committee on streets and public property, from the recommendation of a large number of tax payers and from a special request of the board of trade of this city, have purchased horses, carts and tools necessary for the purpose of [illegible] the streets, and placed a competent man in charge of the business, and are now cleaning the streets by the day.

I would suggest and recommend the more satisfactory method of letting that work out by contract to the lowest responsible bidder, after due notice to receive sealed bids for the same, with the proviso in each bid that the successful bidder will purchase all horses, carts, tools and implements now on hand, at cost price from the city and deduct the amount from the first payment due on contract.

I am fully convinced that such a course would give better satisfaction to the tax payers and be a saving to the city.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
J. A. CHAPMAN, Mayor.

AMUSEMENTS.

MINSTRELS TO-NIGHT.—Courtright & Hawkins' minstrels arrived by the State yesterday afternoon and are registered at the Esmond. To-night they open for one week at New Market Theater. Their first part is set to the scenes representing a tour of the world, during which California, Chile, Italy, Germany, France, England, Scotland, Ireland and New York are represented by songs. One of the attractions of the company is the Roman statuary by William Muldoon, who, though not so massive, is a much finer physique than John L. Sullivan. He has been showing with Emerson in San Francisco and the entire press of that city, including the critical Argonaut, give him unstinted praise. One exchange says: The appearance of William Muldoon, the famous wrestler, in a series of tableaux representing Roman statuary, was evidently the feature in which the best theater goers were noticeable in the dress circle. Muldoon's figure is distinctly classical, and lends itself admirably to the illustration of the best known heroes of ancient sculpture. The exhibition was one of the most pleasing ever seen here and partook very largely of that [illegible] truly described as [illegible] chaste.

The Moral of It.

We may moralize as much as we please about [illegible] but the fact is that we don't like [illegible] while [illegible] want [illegible] get rid [illegible] Whether [illegible] by the ballism [illegible] disordered liver, weak nerves, irregular kid[illegible] bad blood or anything else that is just the [illegible] that [illegible] should be the sooner it is out of the system the happier we are. Whether pain is the result of imprudence or of [illegible], or is sent as a punishment for our sins, may be a nice question for [illegible] philosophers to argue. [illegible] people who are suffering want first to be rid of the pain; after which those who are fond of argument may argue the matter to their heart's content.

Above all theory, argument and philosophy towers the delightful fact: BROWN'S IRON BITTERS drives pain away. Sufferers run no risk in trying this medicine, the only compound containing iron which carries no mischief with it. Those who have used it will tell you so, and you can try for yourself by buying a bottle of the nearest druggist.

BAKER PASHA'S DEFEAT.

Full Particulars of the Battle, and Subsequent Massacre.

THE EGYPTIAN SOLDIERS PANIC STRICKEN.

They Fall upon their Faces and Beg for Mercy, but are Given no Quarter by the Arabs—Two Thousand Killed.

CAIRO, Feb. 5.—Advices regarding the defeat of Baker Pasha are conflicting, but the following details have been received: Baker Pasha began his advance from the entrenchment at Trinkitat Sunday. His forces consisted of 3000 troops, badly armed and short of ammunition, many of whom showed an unwillingness to proceed. Baker Pasha had sent from Trinkitat to Cairo an urgent appeal for rifles to replace the old muskets with which a number of his troops were armed. In reply he received orders to try to force his way to Tokar without delay, and with the English officers connected with the expedition began the march with the expectation of defeat. Spies had falsely reported the road clear with the exception of small bands of rebels. Monday forenoon a portion of the advance encountered the body of Isman Degna's troops, and the fight ensued, which was more of a route than a battle.

COWARDICE OF THE EGYPTIANS.

SUAKEM, Feb. 6.—Baker Pasha lost all his camel and baggage in the fight. Most of the Egyptian officers and men bolted. Colonel Sartoris tried hard to rally them, but without success. Many were pursued into Trinkitat. The European police and Turkish infantry were cut to pieces. Fourteen European and three native officers are missing. The fight began by a few Arab horsemen attacking Baker Pasha's cavalry, which fled. Baker then formed a square, which the enemy surrounded. The rest of the Egyptians then fled in confusion, and the gunners deserted their guns. Baker Pasha was several times surrounded by the enemy, but with his staff managed to force his way through. The enemy's force was inferior in numbers to Baker Pasha's. Only three sides of the square were formed, owing to the fact that two companies of Egyptian troops stood still, overcome with fright. The enemy poured into this gap, when the Egyptians threw away their rifles and flung themselves upon the ground, screaming for mercy. The troops on one side of the square killed many of their own men by wild firing. The enemy betrayed profound contempt for their opponents.

All stores at Trinkitat were brought away. Colonel Barnaby is safe. Marines have landed at Suakem to prevent a panic.

THE NEWS AT LONDON.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—On receipt of the news of Baker Pasha's defeat, the admiralty issued telegraphic orders stopping troops on the way to India.

The Egyptian correspondence is published. It confirms the report that England had no intention of employing British or Indian troops in the Soudan. The English government does not object to the employment of Turkish troops in Egypt, provided the porte pays their expenses.

NO QUARTER GIVEN.

CAIRO, Feb. 6.—Later advices of the defeat of Baker Pasha state that the slaughter of his troops continued all the way back to Trinkitat. The Egyptians were panic stricken and fell upon their knees, but their appeals for mercy were fruitless. The Arabs seized them by the necks and thrust spears into their backs, and savagely cut their throats. Englishmen missing are Maurice Bey, Surgeon Leslie, Captains Foster and Walker and Lieutenants Carroll, Smith and Watkins. Ten other foreign officers are missing. The fugitives huddled together on the shore at Trinkitat, and might easily have been slaughtered, but the enemy gave up pursuit. The men embarked as quickly as possible upon six transports lying there and with Baker Pasha and Colonel Sartorius arrived at midnight at Suakem. Intense excitement prevails at Suakem, and an attack of the enemy is expected. The forts are occupied by English marines. The French agent has telegraphed for a man-of-war.

TEWFIK BEY'S FOLLOWERS ANNIHILATED.

SUAKEM, Feb. 6.—The enemy surrounded and destroyed Tewfik Bey and 400 followers, between Sinkat and the coast, while they were endeavoring to cut their way through the enemy.

HOPELESSLY LOST.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—All special dispatches agree that Tokar and Sinkat are hopelessly lost. The fact that the British gunboats left Trinkitat creates a bad impression upon the minds of the Egyptians, and encourages the rebels in their fanaticism. The rebels captured five guns, 800 pounds of ammunition, 300 rifles and an enormous quantity of cartridges.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—A special cabinet council was held this morning, for discussing the disaster to Baker Pasha. Gladstone presided. Egyptian shares have greatly declined.

NOTES FROM LONDON.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Gladstone stated in the commons to-day that Admiral Hewitt had decided to strengthen the force at Suakem, and that the government had taken measures to increase his forces, in order to insure the safety of that city.

Baker Pasha has telegraphed Sir Evelyn Barring, British minister at Cairo, that the force by which he was attacked was less than 1,000 strong, but that the Egyptians threw away their arms and fled.

PARLIAMENT.

Such Bitterness Already Developed—What the Government Proposes.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—At dinner hour this evening a majority of the members left the house, and at 9 there then were only three conservatives present. Baron Dawornus, the last conservative speaker, asked Lord Edmund Fitzmaurice, under secretary, if the foreign affairs department would continue the debate for the government, but elicited no reply. An amendment could have been negatived without a division if Northcote had not challenged division. The speaker allowed the conservatives a long time to marshal their forces, and the "whip" secured the lobbies of the house, but could collect only twenty members, an incident unprecedented in the history of parliament. The conservatives accuse the government of trickery. Members of the cabinet, however, state privately that there was no intention to close the debate. All the cabinet members were absent from the division, owing to a special cabinet council on Egyptian affairs. In political clubs and lobbies the conservative collapse is attributed to imbecility of leadership and absence of efficient "whips." The liberals, while protesting there was no trickery, are congratulating themselves on the result.

GRANVILLE REPLIES TO SALISBURY.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—In the house of lords last night Earl Granville foreign secretary, replying to the speech of Marquis Salisbury, complaining that England's position toward Egypt was undefined, made a cutting remark that Marquis Salisbury had certainly secured a peculiar advantage in not moving upon a subject about which he was imperfectly informed. Immediately after this the address was adopted.

Gladstone stated that the government does not feel called upon to adopt fresh measures because of General Baker's disaster, and had the debate continued last night Sir Charles Dilke president of the local government board, would have read a telegram confirming the news of the disaster in Egypt.

Lord Randolph Churchill (conservative member from Woodstock) gave notice that he would introduce an amendment to the address, asking the removal of the present ministers and the substitution of others who were fitter. This was greeted with cheers on the part of the conservatives which was answered by counter cheers from the liberals. The amendment was supported by forty conservatives. Lord Randolph Churchill declared that he offered it because of the abrupt feeling of the debate last night. The government, he asserted, was alone responsible for such degradation.

The speaker ruled the amendment out of order.

Lord Randolph Churchill thereupon moved that the house adjourn, for the purpose of giving attention to urgent public business. All conservatives, including the leaders, rose to their feet in support of the motion. Great excitement prevailed.

Mr. Henry Chapin, conservative member for Lincolnshire, seconded the motion and made a violent attack upon the government.

Sir Stafford Northcote declared that the abrupt termination of the debate was conduct unworthy the government.

Mr. Gladstone replied that the government was not responsible. They suffered more than the house from the stoppage of the debate, as they were thereby rendered liable to answer erroneous statements made. The house could be better informed later and would have to discuss the condition of affairs in Egypt, concerning which the government was anxious to make a true statement.

The motion was negatived without division.

Lord Edmund Fitz Maurice, under foreign secretary, stated that the government had news regarding the disaster to Tewfik Bey.

CABINET COUNCIL.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Another cabinet council was held this afternoon to discuss the condition of affairs in Egypt.

VIGILANTES WHO MEAN BUSINESS.

They have a Thorough Organization and Deal Out Swift and Terrible Justice to Evil Doers.

SIOUX CITY, Feb. 5.—A report has reached here from the upper Elkhorn country in Nebraska that "Kid" Wade, leader of the Nebraska outlaws and horse thieves, has been hanged by vigilantes. The vigilantes have headquarters at a place called "The Pen" at the mouth of Long Pine. They have arrested a large number of men in various parts of northern Nebraska and taken them away to "The Pen," where they are tried and disposed of in some manner. The fate of those arrested is not definitely known, but as they are never seen again, it is supposed that they are shot, hanged or conducted out of the country. The terrible earnestness of the vigilantes and the mystery causes men to shudder when their doings are mentioned. It is positively known that they have lynched eleven men, and equally sure that others have met the same fate, but how many and by what means is not known. The "Kid" was captured at Lemare three weeks ago by two of the avengers, and he seemed to realize the fate that awaited him, but manifested no more concern than if going about his ordinary business.

Washington Territory.

About the 1st of March a party of forty persons will leave Pittsfield, Illinois, to settle in Columbia county.

For some time past M. F. Jones has been considerably annoyed by petty thefts committed in his store at Walla Walla. No clue to the thief could be gained until Saturday last, when one of the clerks placed a marked piece of money on the counter. A short time after a fellow named Lowry walked up to the counter and pocketed the money, and was walking away when he was made to disgorge. Logan, the clerk, gave Lowry a sound thrashing and then allowed the thief to depart.

THE EAST SIDE.

ENTERTAINMENT TO-NIGHT.

The entertainment by the ladies of the Congregational church, Holladay's addition, occurs at Neppach's hall this evening, when an attractive programme will be presented.

FIREMEN'S BALL TO-MORROW NIGHT.

Firemen and others are reminded of the social and dance to be given by Relief Hook and Ladder Company No. 3, of the First ward, to-morrow (Friday) evening at the hall, corner of Holladay avenue and Maple street. This being the company's first appeal to the public patronage, it is hoped the co-operation and encouragement of the people will be demonstrated in a substantial manner. The company having only recently organized, necessarily need means for the various purposes requisite to place it in proper condition and good working order, and it behooves those whose property they are organized to protect to rally to their support. The company are making elaborate preparations for the reception of their friends, and also every arrangement calculated to contribute to their pleasure and entertainment. The hall secured by them for the occasion is the largest in the city, occupying the whole of one floor in the large Holladay building on the avenue, affording ample room for all who may attend, and possesses a splendid floor for dancing. The hall is being decorated in a handsome manner, a plentiful supply of bunting being secured by the generosity of Murphy, Grant & Co., of Portland. The ladies of the addition, with their characteristic public spirit, are doing their share in providing an elegant supper for the occasion, which they propose to furnish participants free of expense, so that the admission fee of $1 foots the bill for the evening. Tickets are for sale at Welch Bros.' and Logan & Irvin's drug stores, and also at the postoffice. Good sidewalks lead to the hall from all parts of the city, and those who may object to the distance to be traveled, should remember that they will be fully rewarded therefor at the end of their journey.

FIRE IN HOLLADAY'S ADDITION.

One of J. H. McMillen's houses, located on the corner of Holladay avenue and Second street in McMillen's addition, and occupied by Al. McKenzie, caught fire in the roof yesterday afternoon, it being occasioned by a defective flue. Upon the alarm being given, Relief H. & L. Co. responded promptly in good force, and by dint of hard and constant work with buckets, succeeded in extinguishing the fire and saving a considerable portion of the building. The place was gutted with water, however, and the contents suffered much damage in consequence, entailing a great hardship on Mr. McKenzie. The house is fully insured.

INSTALLATION, DAUGHTERS OF LIBERTY.

The officers-elect of Martha Washington Circle, No. 3, were installed last evening at their hall in Ross & Story's building, by Sister District Deputy Robinson, assisted by Sister Kitterman and Brother Robinson. After the installation ceremonies the circle repaired in a body to attend the basket social given by Circle No. 2 in the A. O. U. W. hall in Portland.

DOG GONE.

A vicious shepherd dog owned by Ben Evans, the teamster, attacked Mrs. Dr. Noltage while walking on I street Tuesday afternoon, spoiling a valuable cloak and causing her to walk lame. The dog died about an hour afterward, however—a strange coincidence.

NOTES.

The roadway of the bridge being built on L street, between Sixth and Eighth, is completed.

H. F. McMillan, the policeman appointed for Stephens' addition, went on duty for the first time Tuesday night.

J. R. Sanborn of San Francisco, well known as an old resident of East Portland, is on a visit here, previous to emigrating for the Coeur d'Alene mines.

The Kenworthy property on J street, between First and Second, including the lot and the building thereon, has been purchased by Captain Cooke, who has lately used the building for a coffin factory. The purchase price was $3600.

At the regular meeting of Phalanx lodge, K. of P., Tuesday evening, George Linville, R. H. Kissling and C. G. Garrison were appointed a committee to make arrangements for the celebration of the first anniversary of the lodge, which occurs on March 22.

A sick and destitute family named Turpin, residing on Water street, near Hogue's mill, deserve the assistance of the charitably disposed. Marshal Linville was instrumental yesterday in securing provisions for them that will keep them from want for several days. A few have responded liberally. It is hoped others will follow their example.

EUGENE NOTES.

[BY OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

EUGENE, Feb. 6.

Miss Mary Yest returned from Portland Monday.

The I. O. G. T. Lodge of this place claims to be the banner lodge of the state.

Mr. J. W. Webb, the temperance lecturer, spoke to crowded houses here on Saturday and Sunday evenings.

The members of Geary Post, G. A. R., will, on next Friday evening, hold a memorial service in memory of the death of the late General J. W. Geary, ex-governor of Pennsylvania, for whom this post was named. He was a brother of Rev. E. R. Geary, of this place.

Mr. George Noland, an alumnus of the State university, but recently from Prineville, and Mr. George H. Burris, of this place, both young attorneys, started yesterday morning for Astoria, where they intend to establish themselves in their profession.

It seems that St. Louis has one Mexican consul, two Mexican exchanges, three Mexican papers and no Mexican trade. There is a disparity somewhere in this arrangement.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

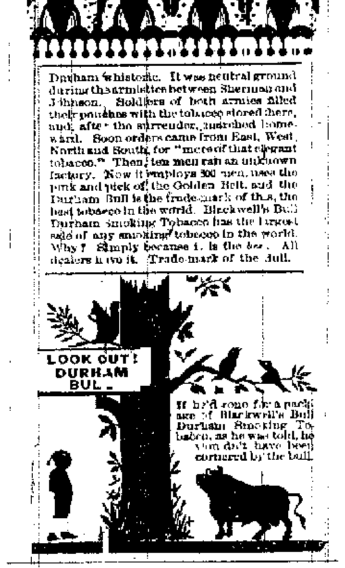
TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT.



Durham historic. It was neutral ground during the armistice between Sherman and Johnson. Soldiers of both armies filled their pouches with the tobacco stored there, and, after the surrender, marched homeward. Soon orders came from East, West, North and South, for "more of that elegant tobacco." Then, ten men ran an unknown factory. Now it employs 900 men, uses the pick and puck of the Golden Belt, and the Durham Bull is the trade-mark of this, the best tobacco in the world. Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco has the largest sale of any smoking tobacco in the world. Why? Simply because it is the best. All dealers have it. Trade-mark of the Bull.

LOOK OUT! DURHAM BULL.

If it is not on the package of Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco, as he was told, he is not dealer, been cornered by the bull.

TUTT'S PILLS
TORPID BOWELS, DISORDERED LIVER, and MALARIA.
From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN
IS THE MOST SUCCESSFUL PHYSICIAN ON the Pacific coast in the treatment of all Chronic and Private Diseases of the Sexual Organs.
He will guarantee to cure any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease, if the patient follows his advice and treatment.
He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the FOLLIES OF YOUTH, such as Spermatorrhoea, or Seminal Weakness, or Loss of Perfect Vitality. Nearly two-thirds of all the chronic diseases spring either directly or indirectly from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by a majority of the Medical Profession.
Persons afflicted by any form of sexual disease or weakness often find their trouble upon the proper physician to time from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit these diseases to exist until their constitution becomes corrupted, their organization broken down, and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death forms a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence. Everything strictly confidential and ... circumstances. Lost manhood perfectly restored.
Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, and all diseases of the Liver and the Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail, if they are curable, and if not, he will tell you so.
Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.
